Regionalism, International Order and Globalisation Most authors would agree that among the primary characteristics of new regionalism scholarship is the analytical focus on a broad range of public and private actors, as well as the need to refer to exogenous factors. Regionalism is closely linked 17 This is not a new phenomenon.

Ironically, as society drifts towards globalization, regionalism also seems to take place in almost every corner of the globe.
In fact, most countries in the world, on all continents, are members of regional trade agreements through either customs unions, free trade areas, or other preferential arrangements. Over 200 regional trade agreements (RTAs)

The Difference Between Globalization and Regionalism ...

The new regionalism is linked to globalization and can therefore not be understood merely from the point of view of the single region. Rather it should be defined as a world order concept, since any particular process of regionalization in any part of the world has systemic repercussions on other regions, thus shaping the way in which the new world order is being organized.

Is regionalism best interpreted as contradictory to the logic of globalisation, or as an integral part of globalisation ? Since 1990, end of the Cold War, the world is an ideological cease-fire, but it is still in search of paradigms to shape the new international order.

The headlong rush towards regionalism has gained new momentum in recent years. The European Union, whose long-standing commitment to regional agreements has arguably triggered this rush, is moving on with its ambitious program of announced regional deals, including with Russia. The EU has also struck deals with Mexico and South Africa.
